Message from Mike

Dear Innisbrook Members,

Hoping your New Year is off to a wonderful start. We are very excited to be welcoming many golfers and groups as the inclement weather up North always sends many travelers our way. As I'm sure you have noticed, Copperhead is almost tournament ready and looking spectacular. The set-up for the chalets and spectator seating has already begun.

February includes a fun list of events for our members such as the February Wine Dinner, Valentine's Day dinners with your sweetheart in either Market Salamander Grille or Packard's Steakhouse including special menus for the occasion, and a continuation of the very popular 3 Bites, 3 Wines series. You will see all of those details inside and we hope you enjoy these special occasions.

As always, I welcome your thoughts and ideas on special events and activities you most enjoy, as well as new ways we can continually improve your membership experience. Please feel free to send me an email at mwilliams@innisbrookresort.com. Thank you in advance for sharing your suggestions.

Wishing you a great month as we move forward to showcase Innisbrook and Copperhead on national television for the Valspar Championship.

Warmest regards,

J. Michael Williams

Managing Director

From the Desk of the Director of Golf

Valued Members,

Happy February, Leap Year! One extra day to play golf this year, what could be better? It's hard to believe that the Holidays and January are already behind us as we head into the heart of our Season.

Speaking of January, for those of you that didn't play in this year's Member Guest Tournament, please consider doing so next year. This continues to be one of our best and most well-received events of the year. The Team and I really enjoy the comradery and interaction with the members and their guests and the feedback we receive is incredible. Please mark your calendars for next January if you would like to attend; you'll be glad you did. And with that being said, Congratulations to this year's 2020 Member Guest Champions, Innisbrook's own, Mr. Todd McWhirter and his Guest, Mr. Todd Atkinson. The Team of Todd & Todd were un-phased by the pressure of the Shootout, where the 10 Flight Winners competed in the Snake Pit, to determine the overall Champions. Anyone interested or looking for more information about next year's Member Guest Tournament, please do not hesitate to call or email and I'll be happy to assist at Bbarnes@innisbrook.com or 727.942.5299.

As a friendly reminder, the Copperhead Golf Course will be Cart Paths Only until after the Valspar Championship. Tournament dates this year are Thursday, March 19 – Sunday, March 22.

I look forward to seeing you around the Club,

Bobby Barnes

A Word from the Pro

Innisbrook Junior Tournament Series Champions

Congratulations to our winner
Michael Koukoulakis
and our runner up Jacob Vazquez!

The Innisbrook Junior Tournament Series started in September and was played through December with our finals and end of season party commencing on Friday, January 10.

We had over 25 Innisbrook junior competitors participating in the first year of this Junior Circuit. These tournaments are a great addition to our program as it teaches our players how to enjoy and handle themselves in competition with sportsmanship, mental toughness, and player development. This competitive pathway program prepares our Innisbrook Juniors to continue to play for their potential high school or college.

Tennis Tip of the Month

From relaxed practice to match-play pressure

The number one question that players ask me is "why can I not play my matches like I play in practice?" For years I have watched players completely fall apart in matches yet play extremely well in practice. This is not unusual and happens to just about everyone. To play matches exactly like you practice can take weeks to master, but here are three principles that can help you close the gap between your practice and your match play.

PRINCIPLE #1
Accepting Failures

When practicing you generally accept your failures with a more relaxed mental attitude than when playing a match. When you make a mistake in practice it's not a calamity because you are just practicing. You casually and comfortably move on. No fear of consequences results in a relaxed mental attitude and more shots landing in the court, which leads to better play. In contrast, during match play if you miss one time you quickly feel the emotional sting and begin to tighten up. Fear of missing now results in anxious play and more shots missing the court, which leads to poorer play.

The solution, of course, is the Refocus Technique: "The next shot is more important than the last mistake." I should add to that "the next shot is more important than the last mistake" IN MATCH PLAY. You may be great at executing this mental attitude in practice, but you have not yet transferred this mental attitude to your match play.

PRINCIPLE #2

Bring Your Strokes to a Subconscious Level

Often playing better in your match play is simply a matter of bringing your strokes in practice to an ultra-high level of subconscious and automatic play. What I'm telling you is lots and lots of practice – way beyond what you think is enough. Because of the pressure of match play your stroke production will always drop a notch or two. With this in mind, you should practice relentlessly until you bring your practice game to an extremely high level. When you then play a match your strokes may drop a little but you will still execute at a high enough level to perform well.

To play more automatically and instinctively in match play, remember:
"Spontaneity through preparation!"

PRINCIPLE #3

Learn to Actually Play Like You Practice

Now, read this carefully! In the morning you are in a practice match and moving the ball around waiting for the right shot to go for your winner. You are not overplaying and you are making your opponent hit many, many balls. When you have an opportunity to go for a winner you take it, but until then you are patient and you are working your opponent, not letting your opponent work you. Well done! Way to go!

In the afternoon you play a real league match. The difference is, now you are really trying to win. This translates subconsciously into hitting the ball a little harder with the mindset of trying to win the point. You begin to make mistakes. You continue to go for a little more on your shots even when you are just hitting to your opponent because you are attempting to WIN! You continue to make more mistakes while trying to WIN until finally, you LOSE. You walk away in frustration thinking, "Why can't I play like I practice?"

The solution. To actually play like you practiced may help! In practice, you were just trying to get the ball back and move your opponent around. Now all of a sudden in match play you are stepping it up a notch to WIN. Do you notice anything inconsistent about these two scenarios? To you, winning when you are playing a match is to do more with the ball than the way you practiced! Here is a short answer to solve this problem. Don't do this. PLAY LIKE YOU PRACTICED.

1 teaspoon	Sesame Oil
1 teaspoon	Rice Wine Vinegar
1 cup	Cooked Buckwheat Noodles
1 package	Rice Paper Wrappers
¼ cup	Cilantro Leaves
½ cup	Red Bell Pepper, julienned
½ cup	Yellow Bell Pepper, julienned
1 cup	Snow Peas, stringed and julienned
3 packages	Enoki Mushrooms, half-ounce
1 cup	Bean Sprouts
¼ cup	Pickled Ginger
2 tablespoons	Black Sesame Seeds
1 cup	Seasoned Buckwheat or Soba Noodles

Kosher Salt and Freshly Ground Black Pepper

ORANGE-CHILI DIPPING SAUCE

½ cup	Freshly Squeezed Orange Juice
3 tablespoons	Sugar
3 tablespoons	Soy Sauce
2 teaspoons	Lime Juice, about ½ lime
1 tablespoon	Sesame Oil
1 tablespoon	Balsamic Vinegar
1 teaspoon	Chili Flakes
1 teaspoon	Kosher Salt

Preparation

RICE PAPER WRAPS

In a medium sized bowl, whisk together the sesame oil and rice wine vinegar. Toss the cooked buckwheat noodles in the sesame mixture. Set aside.

In a large bowl filled with warm water, soak one rice paper wrapper for about 20 seconds or until soft. Lay wrapper out on a tea towel to absorb excess water. Transfer wrapper to a flat surface.

About ⅓ from the bottom of the wrapper, create a three-inch long row by placing some cilantro leaves followed by some red pepper, yellow pepper, snow peas, mushrooms, bean sprouts, buckwheat noodles and a little ginger.

Season to taste with salt and pepper. Sprinkle the top ⅓ of the rice wrapper with black sesame seeds. Carefully fold the bottom of the rice paper wrapper over the vegetables. Turn in the sides and continue rolling up from the bottom.

To serve, slice the roll in half on a bias.
Serve with Orange-Chili Dipping Sauce.

ORANGE-CHILI DIPPING SAUCE

Whisk together all the ingredients in a mixing bowl. Allow the sauce to stand for 30 minutes so that the flavors can infuse. Serve at room temperature.
